

The Purpose of the Various Color Ray Light Energies

by Bryan, Kevin & Katherine James

Universal Light energy appears in a variety of beautiful, bright colors, and each has a specific purpose. There are hundreds of practical uses for these energies, and they can serve us in any manner we can conceive. The Light is not only useful for people, but it can also help bless animals, plants, trees or insects.

It can improve the quality of food or drink, and it's valuable for supporting any situation or event. We can send it to anyone or anything, anywhere, anytime, for any good or noble purpose. We'll now discuss several of the specific energies, and their colors and uses.

Kevin:

The (dark) blue Light helps me have great talent when I'm working on something like drawing a picture. The powder blue Light gives me ideas when I'm designing a new invention or building something.

Katherine:

And the blue Light helps me not get discouraged when I'm drawing because the picture looks better.

Bryan:

The blue Light does help with creativity. I have noticed that their artwork and dancing improved considerably since we started using it. The powder blue provides Kevin with divine inspiration for creating elaborate designs with his Legos, Duplos and Tinkertoys.

At first glance, this doesn't sound that impressive, but all of his inventions work in such an impressive way, that Kevin could be an engineering prodigy like some children are with music.

I noticed the powder blue Light quite a bit while writing this book because my teachers wanted to inspire me. Our spiritual teachers and guides send us Light without our asking when they see we have a need for it.

Katherine:

I use the blue-white fire for healing when my brother or I have a fever or headache. Sometimes we also use the white Light, and then we feel much better.

Bryan:

For healing, the blue-white fire is very powerful. It provides us with a new spark of life force (spiritual energy). Occasionally, my wife will call me at work because her body aches from fibromyalgia.

I remember sending her the blue-white fire, and she felt better in less than a minute even though she was over 40 miles away. Of course, healing is affected by a number of factors, including Karma and a soul's intended lessons for a particular lifetime. So you can't always count on a complete physical healing. But we're very grateful for any relief she receives from the healing Light.

Kevin:

You can use the (Emerald) green Light for getting along with other people like your parents or other kids at school. It gives us harmony and patience.

Katherine:

I like the green Light because when we do chores like folding clothes, we can go a little bit faster because we don't fight.

Bryan:

I send the green Light to the children when they come home from school because they're usually tired and grouchy, and it helps keep harmony in the house. It's also essential for providing balance in your life or bringing balance to a situation.

It's so easy for our lives to get out of balance with work, school and other activities that fill our schedules. We work long hours to finish the boss's project, or stay up late finishing a school paper to get a good grade. Or maybe we just lose sleep volunteering for our daughter's Girl Scout troop or some local church activity. After a while, we start to wear down.

Before long, we're not eating properly, sleeping well or getting enough exercise. That leads to illness or burn out. Meanwhile, we neglect our families and then our relationships suffer. Losing our life balance can take a heavy toll on us but the green Light helps center us again.

The green Light is also good for patience, and we all need it on occasion. When kids or coworkers start to wear on my nerves, I find it very therapeutic to bring down the green Light.

Kevin:

I need the gold Light for protection when I'm sleeping, so bad thoughts or scary dreams don't come into my head.

Katherine:

We use the gold Light around our car when Mom drives us to school.

Bryan:

The gold Light is a must for commuters. Driving long distances in heavy traffic day after day is stressful and often dangerous, but the gold Light will help protect you. I had first hand experience while parked on a roadside one day.

I drove to downtown Los Angeles to visit a friend, and I parked on a one-way street, which was near her office. I had a few extra minutes to spare so I sat quietly in my car and brought down the gold Light to uplift my confidence. I was having a bad day and gold always lifts my spirits.

As I brought it down, I could see it entering my aura as it normally does, when all of a sudden it FLASHED at me, similar to someone cranking up the knob on a gas stove. A few seconds later, I was jolted by a loud and violent smack on the right side of my car. I opened my eyes and caught a glimpse of a car speeding away, going the wrong way on the one-way street. I was shocked and too out of position to chase the car as it sped away.

Fortunately, I was physically fine and my car was only slightly nicked. As I regained my composure, I realized that someone, either a teacher or angel, had increased the gold Light to ensure my protection. I suppose they could have protected me in other ways, perhaps by wrapping their arms around me, but they used the Light to ensure my safety.

It makes me wonder how they did it back in 1984, when I totaled my car in a head-on collision. While driving home through San Francisco, a drunk driver turned left in front of me, and I hit him head-on going 40-45 miles per hour. Back then, I didn't wear my seat belt like I do now, so I should have flown through the windshield and been seriously hurt or killed.

Instead, something held me back and I stayed motionless in my seat. I didn't even hit the steering wheel, and I stepped out of the car without a scratch. I realize that this defied the laws of physics, but I didn't really think about it at the time. I was more concerned about my car and how I was going to get home. Now I realize that someone or something was protecting me.

Besides divine protection, the gold Light has many other functions too. I use it to increase my confidence when I have an important presentation at work. It provides us with wisdom and discernment for making important decisions. And it's essential for building faith and courage for facing life's challenges.

At this writing, the economy is currently in a slower growth cycle, and over the past few months, hundreds of thousands of people have lost their jobs due to corporate layoffs. For many people, unemployment is a very traumatic experience and it saps confidence necessary for getting that next job. The gold Light provides that necessary support for boosting confidence, self-esteem and courage, and it can make a huge difference for job seekers!

Kevin:

Sometimes, if someone's been mean to me, or if I'm having a bad day, I bring down the orange Light so I can feel better about whatever is making me sad. I send other people the orange Light too, to help them feel better.

Katherine:

The orange Light helps me be happy while playing with my friends at school. If I feel sad, I use it to cheer me up.

Bryan:

The orange Light brings joy and enthusiasm to people or a situation. I give the orange Light to the children before their dance class, to help them add enthusiasm to their dancing. I also use it at my job to liven up the office when work gets a little boring.

Giving the orange Light to someone is a wonderful gift, especially if they're sad or depressed. This special ray is also excellent for hospitals, convalescent homes and orphanages, where people are often feeling lonely and discouraged.

We use the orange-red flame to dissolve negative energy from a room, object, our energy centers or our physical body. This Light is also an excellent tool for overcoming harmful addictions to food, drugs, alcohol or sex. It purifies our aura and physical body and helps treat mental and physical illness.

The orange-red flame actually burns away the negative energy, dissolving it into the mineral kingdom. Although this energy will not burn us, it's possible to feel its warmth as it purifies our energy field.

Katherine:

The orange-red flame cleans the negative energy from the chair you're sitting on.

Kevin:

Yeah, we use it at restaurants and movie theaters, because we never know if the person sitting in my seat before me had negative energy that I could pick up!

Bryan:

Kevin's comment sounds a little silly at first, but over the past year I've learned to sense disturbing or negative energies when I sit in someone else's seat, or a chair in a public place like a movie theater or restaurant. Frankly, most people won't notice. But someone who's clairsentient may find it to be very uncomfortable.

But whether you notice it or not, you can easily pick up someone else's negative energy, which can put you in a sour mood. Your best remedy for the situation is to (silently) purify your chair with the orange-red flame, and follow it up with the blue-white fire.

Kevin:

All the Lights mean different kinds of things. For instance, I use the pink Light if I'm having trouble getting along with someone—like my sister.

Katherine:

And when my brother is mean to me, I give him the pink Light for love and compassion. Also, I use it when my friends are mean to me, or I'm mean to them. But mostly, when I get in trouble with my mom and dad, I send down the pink Light for love, forgiveness and mercy!

Bryan:

Pink is for love, compassion and forgiveness. I use it to help the children stop fighting, so they can forgive one another. It actually softens them up with its soft, relaxing vibration, and encourages them to want to reconcile. This is also very useful for resolving conflict between adult couples and we can use it when we seek forgiveness from one another.

This energy also works well at the office when employees aren't getting along. Naturally, I don't announce I'm sending them Light, but conflicts at work get resolved a lot faster now.

The pink Light is also a great energy for sales professionals, because it creates a dynamic of attraction. Clergy, politicians and most other professionals who work closely with the public can make good use of this energy in their profession. I often ask the angels for the pink Light before I call on a customer (especially if they are angry), lead a staff meeting or attempt to sell a new idea to my boss.

Kevin:

The purple Light gives me peace and helps me calm down. And when I'm having a hard time going to sleep, it can help me sleep better.

Katherine:

I send down the purple Light for peace and quiet when my friends fight at school. And it helps me sleep at night too.

Bryan:

We use the purple Light to bring peace and tranquility to others, situations and ourselves. Use it to relax when you feel stressed or have trouble getting to sleep. I use it every night when I tuck the children in bed. The purple Light helps them calm down and rest peacefully.

The purple Light is a great tool for bringing peace to a conflict between individuals or even nations. If enough people sent purple Light to the Middle East, we could greatly impact that region of the world.

Kevin:

I use the red Light if I want to get lots of energy and not be sleepy. It's great for when I go swimming and want to beat the other kids in a race.

Katherine:

I like the red Light because it makes me have energy when I'm at school running in P.E. (Physical Education).

Bryan:

For me, I use it for my long commutes home in traffic. I also see it the first thing in the morning when I wake up—kind of like my first cup of coffee! I can remember waking up one morning and feeling very sleepy. I opened up my eyes and said, "Hey, how about some red Light?" Whoosh! There it was! "Hey, good one! Thanks." Now I don't even have to ask anymore. It just shows up to give me a boost. Now if I could just get my morning coffee like that!

This energy is also great for spurring you on at the gym, or giving you a burst of energy after lunch. What is nice about this is that the red Light works so quickly. When I use it, I instantly feel my droopy eyes open wide, and my mind becomes more alert.

The Light sends a surge of energy through your body, not like adrenaline where you feel a rush, but more like turning on a light switch. Boom! All of a sudden, you feel awake and alert. Compared with using caffeine to get an energy boost, using the red Light is much healthier for your body.

Katherine:

The turquoise Light helps my money grow, which means I get more money.

Bryan:

Everyone can use more prosperity, so during difficult economic times, use the turquoise Light to bring prosperity into your life. Many people have a poverty consciousness or mindset, and this Light helps eliminate that condition.

My family has experienced several breakthroughs in our prosperity flow by using the turquoise Light. It helps heal feelings of unworthiness; of not having access to abundant living. Turquoise energy influences our attitude toward abundance and raises our confidence. It empowers us to know that we have or will soon receive exactly what we need.

Kevin:

I use the yellow Light for concentration. I have A.D.D. (Attention Deficit Disorder), and it helps me focus better at school.

Bryan:

Kevin has done very well in school since we started using the yellow and silver Light every day. Yellow is great when we have a lot going on in our lives, and our brain feels fried because our thoughts are going in a hundred different directions. It helps eliminate the noise in our head so we can focus on what we need to handle at the moment.

The silver Light improves our intelligence and helps us think clearly and effectively. Kevin used to struggle in school because of his A.D.D., but he recently scored in the 90th percentile in Math on his national Stanford 9 test.

It has also helped his reading, as he had considerable difficulty focusing. The yellow and silver Lights are a must for students of all ages.

You can also access the white Light, which provides protection, illumination of our thoughts, purity and holiness. This special Light takes your consciousness to a higher level, and helps you focus your thinking from a heavenly perspective.

While there are numerous other advanced-level energies, these primary colors will, if used consistently, change and improve every aspect of your life—just as it has for my children and me.

Now when my children get into an argument with each other or a friend, they have an easier time resolving it. If they have a spelling test at school, or need to create a work of art, they have a helper they can call on.

And when a friend or someone in the family is sick, they can contribute to their healing. Whatever the issue may be, they never have to feel helpless in trying to resolve it.

Meditating with Color Ray Light energy is probably different than any you have seen, practiced or heard of before. In my view, this method is easy to master and wields a powerful impact, even though it probably requires less time commitment. It's so easy to apply even children enjoy it!
